

Brackets, Commas and Dashes

When extra information is added to a sentence, it can be enclosed in a pair of brackets, commas or dashes.

Re-write each sentence adding the extra information and enclosing it in a pair of brackets, dashes or commas.

Friction, air resistance and water resistance slow objects down.	which are all forces
There are different types of force which have different effects on objects.	push, pull, air resistance, water resistance, magnetic forces, gravity
More than one force can act on an object simultaneously.	either reinforcing or opposing
Mechanisms can allow a small force to have a greater effect.	levers, pulleys and gears
A parachute can slow down a falling object.	using the force of air resistance
Friction can slow down or stop a moving object.	which can be helpful or unhelpful
Some footwear has a deep tread to increase friction.	walking boots or wellingtons
Sir Isaac Newton helped to develop a theory of gravity.	a famous British scientist

Check all your punctuation and spelling before handing in your learning.